22 years of helping families and individuals fleeing domestic violence by connecting them to safe, affordable housing and services.

17 Households connected to privately owned affordable apartments through Project HOME, New Destiny’s rapid re-housing pilot program, through the end of fiscal year 2016. A collaboration with New York City Family Justice Centers (FJCs) in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx, Project HOME links domestic violence survivors who are clients at the FJCs to apartments in privately owned, safe, affordable, permanent housing and wrap-around services that help them to remain stable in their housing post-placement.

To date, 100% of families connected to apartments have remained housed. Ninety-two individuals participated in a Project HOME housing readiness workshop during the past year.

136 Units of new and preserved affordable housing are in the pipeline. We are in pre-development for two projects that together will provide 100 units of affordable housing for homeless survivors of domestic violence who are in shelters as well as low-income households from the community. We also began pre-development work for a renovation of four of our oldest buildings in Brooklyn. Building-wide and apartment repairs will enable us to preserve these buildings as affordable housing for the long-term.

100 Percent of tenants in our buildings remained stably housed during the past year, a testament to the work of our Family Support Program. In addition, 99% of families headed by domestic violence survivors in our buildings remained free of repeat incidents of abuse; 25% of tenants secured new jobs and 25% engaged in job readiness activities such as enrolling in school, GED or ESL classes; and 28% participated in financial literacy workshops. Seventy percent of residents work full-time or part-time.

At seven buildings in the Bronx and Brooklyn we offer services and activities to over 425 adults and children including safety planning, domestic violence counseling, case management, financial literacy and budgeting, job readiness and vocational counseling and referrals, parenting support and health, education and legal referrals. Services for children include after-school homework help, academic assistance, therapeutic art and drama activities, and social activities and trips. Group activities are designed to engage domestic violence survivors in services, help them rebuild social networks by creating a sense of community, and provide supervised activities for children.

“We all know that domestic violence is something that is happening worldwide. I wish I could put New Destiny in every city and in every state in the world.”

Rella Fogliano, Founder and CEO, The MacQuesten Companies
134,208 Unique visitors accessed our online Housing Resource Center, which continues to be the “go to” resource for both advocates and domestic violence survivors. The Resource Center provides accurate and up-to-date information on subsidies and rental assistance programs, how to conduct a successful housing search, overcoming common housing challenges and referrals and linkages to other resources.

Story of Hope

Louisa, a domestic violence survivor and single mother of three children, has been living in one of New Destiny’s buildings for two years. She was not working, and decided to apply to college to receive an associate degree in social work. Feeling overwhelmed with the many program options and how she would negotiate caring for her children while she attended school, she sought assistance from the on-site Tenant Support Coordinator, who helped her to address these concerns so she could pursue her academic goals.

The Tenant Support Coordinator helped Louisa find a social work program close to her home that would waive the application fee. They also discussed how many and how to best coordinate classes around her children’s schedules. Louisa is currently enrolled in the program.

1,000 Callers used our HelpLine. Most callers are domestic violence survivors seeking information on affordable housing options. Our HelpLine staff guides them through their options on the process of obtaining housing, and provides technical assistance and advice about how to address housing-related issues.

275 Supporters and colleagues joined New Destiny at our annual gala, to celebrate our accomplishments and honor (left to right) Rella Fogliano, Founder and CEO, The MacQuesten Companies; Cecile Noel, Commissioner, New York City Mayor’s Office to Combat Domestic Violence; Gary Rodney, President, New York City Housing Development Corporation (NYC HDC); and Jill Edwards, Director, Community Development Investments, Charles Schwab.

18 Workshops provided critical information on housing options for domestic violence survivors, service providers and advocates.

“The key New Destiny gave us wasn’t only to our home, to me it has been the key to many doors of endless opportunities. Because of supportive housing I have had the opportunity to continue my education. Although leaving my abuser was once the hardest decision I’ve had to make in my life, I must add it has also been the best. I am grateful to God and New Destiny for who I have become, thanks to this opportunity.” — New Destiny client
